GROWN IN THE DAHLIA GARDENS

MRS. T. L. TATE

ROUTE No. 1
OLD FORT NORTH CAROLINA

READ THIS PAGE BEFORE ORDERING

An extra good season gives large bulbs. I guarantee them true to name.

Send in orders early. All orders booked and sent out in rotation.

Send money with order and write name and address plainly. Package can be insured for 5 cents extra.

Always use same initials. Stamps accepted for any amount under one dollar.

When you receive your box of bulbs do not open them and then set them down to dry up. If not ready to plant, place bulbs at once in a box of damp (not wet) sand or earth and they will be nicely started when you are ready.

Always give second choice.

Twelve, my selections, $1.00.

Twelve, higher priced ones, $2.00.

If large bulbs are wanted, send postage with order.

Blooms in season, 25c and 50c per bunch, according to price of bulbs.

Gardens open to visitors any day except Sunday.

I positively will not take orders or exhibit my flowers on Sunday.

Inside back cover for cultural directions.

NEW EXHIBITION CACTUS DAHLIAS

ALABASTER—The best white exhibition cactus, flowers are large and incurved formed; free bloomer. 75c.

ARTHUR PICKARD—Flowers of finest form, with long, evenly-incurving petals. The color a light salmon. 25c.

AUBURN BEAUTY—A very pleasing shade of bronze, bright yellow in the center; a favorite. 50c.

BALLET GIRL—A new cactus; large size and remarkable free blooming on good stems. The ground color is orange, often tipped and marked with white; a flower well worth a place in any garden. $1.00.

BRIDES' BOUQUET—Flowers pure white of medium size and perfect form. A good cut flower and good root maker. 75c.

BRITISH LION—Flowers of a peculiar yellowish red or tawny. 25c.

CENTURION—Color, a rich glowing crimson scarlet; flowers composed of long narrow petals, which incurve, twist and interlace. 50c.

CRYSTAL—White in center, passing to a deep silvery pink, plant dwarf, flowers large and beautiful. 50c.

DECISION—A splendid exhibition dahlia, with long, narrow incurved petals, deep yellow at center, shading to a golden bronze; a fine grower. 25c.

E. F. HAWES—The stems of this cactus are large and hard as a cane, the color is a pretty shade of clear salmon pink. 50c.

ETENDARD DE LYON—The petals are broad, curled and wavy and form a flower fully six inches across. It is a rich carmine rose, with brilliant suffusion hard to describe. 50c.

FALCON—A capital dahlia, combining the best possible habit with other good qualities. The stems are long and rigid, and the flowers are of good cactus type. Color, yellow at base and a reddish bronze at tips. 50c.

FEARLESS—One of the largest dahlias, if not the largest. The petals are very long, slightly incurved and as narrow as needles. Color, bright orange-scarlet. 50c.

GLADYS BATES—A huge cut flower of perfect form with incurved petals. Color, tan with rose reverse. A dahlia of real merit. $1.00.

GOLDEN EAGLE—The flowers are of excellent form with long, needle point, narrow petals. Color is a bright yellow, suffused with rose, fawn and dove. The habit of the plant is perfect, carrying its profusion of blooms well above the foliage; a veritable porcupine flower. 25c.

INDOMITABLE—The petals narrow and long, much incurved, mauve lilac, lighter tips. 25c.

IRENE SATIS—Plants dwarf and have a bushy growth. Flowers full and of a large size. Color is amber, deepening to bronze on old petals. 50c.

LADY SWATHLING—A dahlia of beautiful color. Deep salmon pink, with a golden center. Petals long, quilled and straight. Flowers broad and deep. Upright grower and good bloomer. 50c.

LORNA DOONE—Good, robust, not too tall grower, the flower stems being quite erect. Color, yellow at base, but the greater part of petals is a pinkish shade, yet decidedly tinged with carmine, as to make it quite distinct. 50c.

MAD. ESCHENAU—Sulphur, cream base, shading into lavender points; beautiful. 50c.

MELODY—The most distinct of the new varieties and the most admired. Color, clear yellow for half the length of petals, the rest being pure white. Flowers of first rate size, typical cactus form and great depth. Good strong stems. 50c.

MRS. H. BLACKMAN—This is another cactus dahlia with splendid stems, long, stiff and upright. Pretty rosy-pink on old petals, then lighter to blush and finally white at center. 50c.

- MRS. M. STREDWICK—Far and away the finest of the Eng. Ex. Cactus Dahlias. The form is as perfect as possible; the plants have a grand habit with strong, erect stems. Color, pink, softening and deepening at tips and base. $1.50.
- MRS. C. G. WYATT—Pure, glistening, snow white, good form, fine bloomer. 50c.
- MRS. HENRY RANDLE—Color, pale cream, changing to a lovely rosy tint and distinct tipped creamy white. 50c.
- MRS. J. EMBERSON—Pale lemon, speckled with pink. 25c.
- MRS. STEPHENS—Form of flower first class, stems long and hard, and early; pale primrose throughout. 25c.
- MRS. T. W. WILLIS—Petals long and very pointed, white base, rosy lilac tips, very beautiful. 50c.
- OLD NORTH STATE—A sport from Mrs. Emberson. Pretty lemon yellow, edged with pink, large flowers, good bloomer. 25c.
- OLYMPIC—A grand flower, of a deep rich crimson color, and of massive proportions, many flowers measuring eight inches across, and being exceptionally incurved, and of great depth as well. 50c.
- PATRIOT—Splendid erect habit, long strong stems, holding flowers up facing. Blooms are large and incurving and of a dark scarlet. 75c.
- PIERROT—An unique and striking novelty. The color being deep amber, shaded darker and tipped with pure white. The flowers are very large and habit good. 50c.
- PRIMA DONNA—Pale pink; large. 50c.
- RICHARD BOX—Clear light yellow, the form is perfectly incurved; a strong feature of this variety is its grand flower stem, the blooms being held erect in spite of their great size and weight. 25c.
- SENTINEL—A grand variety requiring little or no thinning and no disbudding, yet producing great flowers on huge stems. Color, deep rose with a disc of white at base. 50c.
- SWEETBRIAR—An exquisite shade of rose pink. The finest pink cactus dahlia on the market. 50c.
- VALIANT—A giant flower of brilliant crimson, carried on a giant stem. Form perfectly incurved. $1.00.

CULTURE AND KEEPING OF BULBS

Dahlias will grow in any kind of soil, except soil that is soured by water standing on it.

They like full sun best, but will grow and bloom in partial shade. In the extreme south it will be best to plant in partial shade. A lath shelter over them would help.

Deep planting helps, too, with a mulch of leaves or boards around them. Deep breaking of soil, either by plow or spade, keeps the dry weather from injuring them. Ordinary good garden soil, not too rich, is best. Some plant in poor soil and apply fertilizers and bone meal to top after flower buds begin to show.

If soil is very sandy, leaf mold is a good fertilizer; or if stiff clay, add sand or leached ashes to loosen it some.

Stable manure can be used if well rotted. If not well rotted, it may cause bulbs to rot, especially if it touches them.

The bulb should be laid down flat and covered four to six inches deep. Three feet apart gives best results, but I have planted two feet each way, and the pompons one foot each way. They will not bloom much if weeds and grass choke them. The ground should be stirred around them after hard rains and never allowed to bake and get hard. For Exhibition Flowers, leave one stalk to bulb and tie it to a good stake, set well in the ground. Trim out every other branch. For just a row across vegetable garden, grown for cut flowers, I would pinch out the top when four leaves have formed and let them make four branches. Then hoe dirt up around to these branches. They will not need staking.

Another way is: when plants get three or four feet high, just bend them all over one way, down on the ground. They will grow up at ends and bloom just as well and need no staking. When frost kills the tops, cut them off, lift the clumps with shovel or garden fork. Let dry one-half day in sun and store in a dry cellar, covered with dry sand or just dry dirt. They will keep in a warm closet, packed in boxes of dry dirt. Or they may be left in the ground, south of Virginia, if a litter of dirt is made over each place. (They would have to be taken up in spring to be divided.) They can be "holed-up," as we do potatoes sometimes.

Do not divide up the clumps until spring. The new sprout comes on lower part of old stem (not on tubers), so part of this old stalk must be left to each tuber. If they have been kept very dry and "eyes" don't show enough to divide in April, carry the clumps out and bury in ground for a week. Plant one tuber in a hill.
